Avensa Hea

“Our aim is to reduce the occurrence of HAIs through the simplest means possible”

Avensa is a solution provider to the textile manufacturing and healthcare delivery industries. The firm came into business in 1996 with the introduction of the "Wrinkle Free" concept to the Indian garment manufacturing sector. In 2007, the firm was rebranded as Avensa (Formerly S&A Impex) with two main divisions, Textile Chemicals and Healthcare.

Avensa is part of the Technopak Group which has primary interests in management consulting, product design, brand management and other diversified holdings.

Currently, the firm has a team of 45 people operating out of two offices (Gurgaon-NCR and Tirupur) and a production unit, bring skills in the areas of electrical, biomedical, textile and computer engineering. Our strength lies in our marketing and sales team who are able to gauge the requirements of the customer and provide the highest level of service to compliment our product offerings.

What we do...

At Avensa, our goal is to minimise the risk of any kind of nosocomial infection through easy, practical and efficient solutions. We do this by conducting a full on site study (along with the microbiology department of the facility) to assess the level of protection needed by the facility.

The process takes us a week wherein we understand the movement and type of infection that is within the facility. Subsequently, our testing mechanisms allow us to assess the risk factor to the staff and to other stakeholders in the area. A recommendation is then given to the facility upon what would be an optimal solution considering the resources and constraints of the customer.

We provide a comprehensive range of products which assist in infection control, each of which adds a level of convenience, high level of efficacy with an aim to reduce the overall expenditure for the customer. To enhance efficiency of the optimal solution provided, training is imperative which will be provided at regular intervals to all the key staff members.
